European Directive 2002/95/EC (RoHS) "Restriction of Hazardous Substances"

April 12, 2013

To: CSI Customers

CSI Strives to be in compliance with the European Directive 2002/95/EC, our manufacturing processes have been reviewed and all solder, flux and consumable items tied to our manufacturing process have been replaced by lead free alternatives.

Individual certification is available upon requests, all possible compliant material alternates have been sourced, however it should not be assumed that all CSI are compliant this certification is granted on a case by case basis.

Our RoHS compliance program is dedicated to supplying our customers, accurate and valuable information needed, assuring that the products we provide to you meet all RoHS requirements or standards if you should have any questions or require certification on our products technical contacts are listed below:
